FIRST IMPRESSIONS COUNT

Did you ever stop to consider what gives your customers their first impression of you? And did you ever stop to wonder what that first impression of you might be?

Naturally, the first impression a prospective customer gets of you and your store is through the front of the store — your windows. For this very reason it's generally recognized in good retailing that the front and windows of a store are the most important space in a store.

A good many dealers don't realize this; or at least you couldn't know that they did from their windows. They're not attractively dressed; they're not clean and inviting; they're not filled with seasonable goods, plainly priced and they're not changed often enough.

Few merchants have the knack or the materials to make the elaborate windows the big store or chain store window experts have. But elaborate windows aren't necessary to sell goods. Any merchant can make a nice, clean, attractive window of goods appropriate for the season, and most important, he can price ticket each item and show his faith in his values, which too many merchants seem afraid to do.

And it is important, too, to keep your store front well painted. Nothing makes a store look dilapidated so much as the lack of paint, and the cost is so small that it does not pay to neglect it.

You'll agree that it is important that the first impression of you and your store be favorable. So why not make sure that it is.

All Orders received in our office on or after August 1st, 1935, will be filled at prices in effect in our August Salesman.

No Sales Tax to Pay on These Prices.

Please have your banker make all cheques payable at par in Toronto, as we are obliged to pay exchange on cheques not so marked.

We cannot be responsible for currency sent by mail unregistered.

All goods are put up in packages as small as possible consistent with safe shipping. We cannot break packages.

Please write your order on a separate sheet from any other communications, as this enables both being attended to at once.

We sell to dealers only, and send our catalogues only to merchants handling our goods. Any merchant, even if not a customer, will do us a favor by telling us if he sees anyone with a catalogue who is not entitled to it. A whole-sale catalogue in the hands of a consumer hurts retail business generally. It is to your own interest to co-operate with us along this line.

Otherwise, have freight agent receipt your freight bill showing that shipment was in damaged condition and you can make claim for any shortage or loss.

We do not accept any responsibility for shipments sent to flag stations, as the railway companies will not consider any claims entered for such shipment.

If you will group your purchases in each department it will facilitate the filling of your orders. The letter prefixed to a number denotes the department to which the article belongs.

Be sure and say through what express or freight company to ship and to what town, if you are not on railroad or waterfront.

All Returns Must be Made Within Five Days After Receipt of Goods, Otherwise We Will Not Accept Them
