

The Coronation
and

ROYAL WAY

LOYAL CANADIANS throughout the entire Dominion, who are looking forward to attending the great Ceremonial of Crowning England's King and the Historic Pageants, should arrange to cross by Canada's "ROYAL LINE," operating the fastest and finest appointed steamships in the Canadian-European Service.

Voyagers will find the peculiarly appropriate furnishings of the Royal Edward and the Royal George pleasingly reminiscent of other Kings and Queens of earlier days. The imagination is carried back, as one makes a tour of the many different apartments, to the days of Louis XV. and XVI. with their regal splendors, and to the good old days of Elizabeth, while the traveller is being carried across the Atlantic's broad expanse at a speed between nineteen and twenty knots an hour, surrounded by all the luxury and comfort of a modern palace.

The Epicure will find rare delicacy and refinement in the cafe, which is decorated throughout in the Regency style, while his appetite will be ably catered to with toothsome viands excellently prepared.

The Music Lover will find quiet repose in his favorite retreat, which is decorated throughout in the Louis XVI. period, its ivory-white woodwork and furnishings of pastel blue combining in a rich yet restful effect.

The Smoker can enjoy his tobacco thoroughly in the huge smoke-room, which is a fine example of Elizabethan architecture down to the smallest detail.

The Lover of Books will find an air of settled, reflective charm about the library—well-stocked book cases, and every attribute of opulent repose.

Those who delight in quiet elegance will find in the Suites-de-luxe, in the single and double berth rooms, exemplification of all that is rich and beautiful, yet restful to the eye and pleasing to one's sense of refinement.

The Ordinary Traveller, of either sex or any age, will find that in eating, resting, drinking, sleeping, playing or smoking, every care has been exercised to make his voyage one that will appeal to his keenest sense of comfort and enjoyment.

The Royal Edward and Royal George dock at Avonmouth, a few miles down the river from Bristol—a two hours' run to London on the special Boat Trains, which run from the dock on the arrival of the Canadian Northern Steamships.
