

Sammy goes
a' hunting

(SA) AINSIE, KATHLEEN SAMMY GOES...
[1906?]

dr fol

37131009 540 618

II, 961

99
R. De B. Hassell.

from R. V. G. Mouchka

Jan 1907.

Sammy goes
a' hunting.

by

Kathleen Finnie

---

Castell Brothers Ltd.

London -

New York. Frederick A. Stokes Company.

A

"Seven o'clock, Master Sam,
and the frost 'ave
broke up beautiful ---
you'll 'ave a grand run
today, Master Sam,
- Sir - - - -

Seven o'clock - and the
meets at Jack
White's Cross Roads,
Master Sam - sir -

NOVEMBER

K

"Ugh - - - - - how

cold it is! - - - - -

How sl - e - p - y

I am - - - - -

Ah - - - aw - - -

aw - - - augh - -

augh!! - - -"

Be quick, be quick, there's no time to be lost — a good breakfast before starting
we must have.

"Ham and eggs, please" —

"Tea and toast, please" —

"What for you, Master Sam?"

"How — I'm not hungry
thanks — Yes, that will do
nicely — not too much
soda-water, please" —

Come, come, Sammy,
jump up again quick!

Ah! its all very fine
your getting off to open
gates for Lady Tabitha,
but you won't be at
the meet at this rate —

no—you see, Sammy's not there!

"How do, Lady Tabitha"
said the M.F.H.— "Jolly morn-ing eh? Come out to shew us
how to sit a horse, eh?
Where's our young friend,
Sammy. Not far off if you are out I'll be bound—
—eh?"

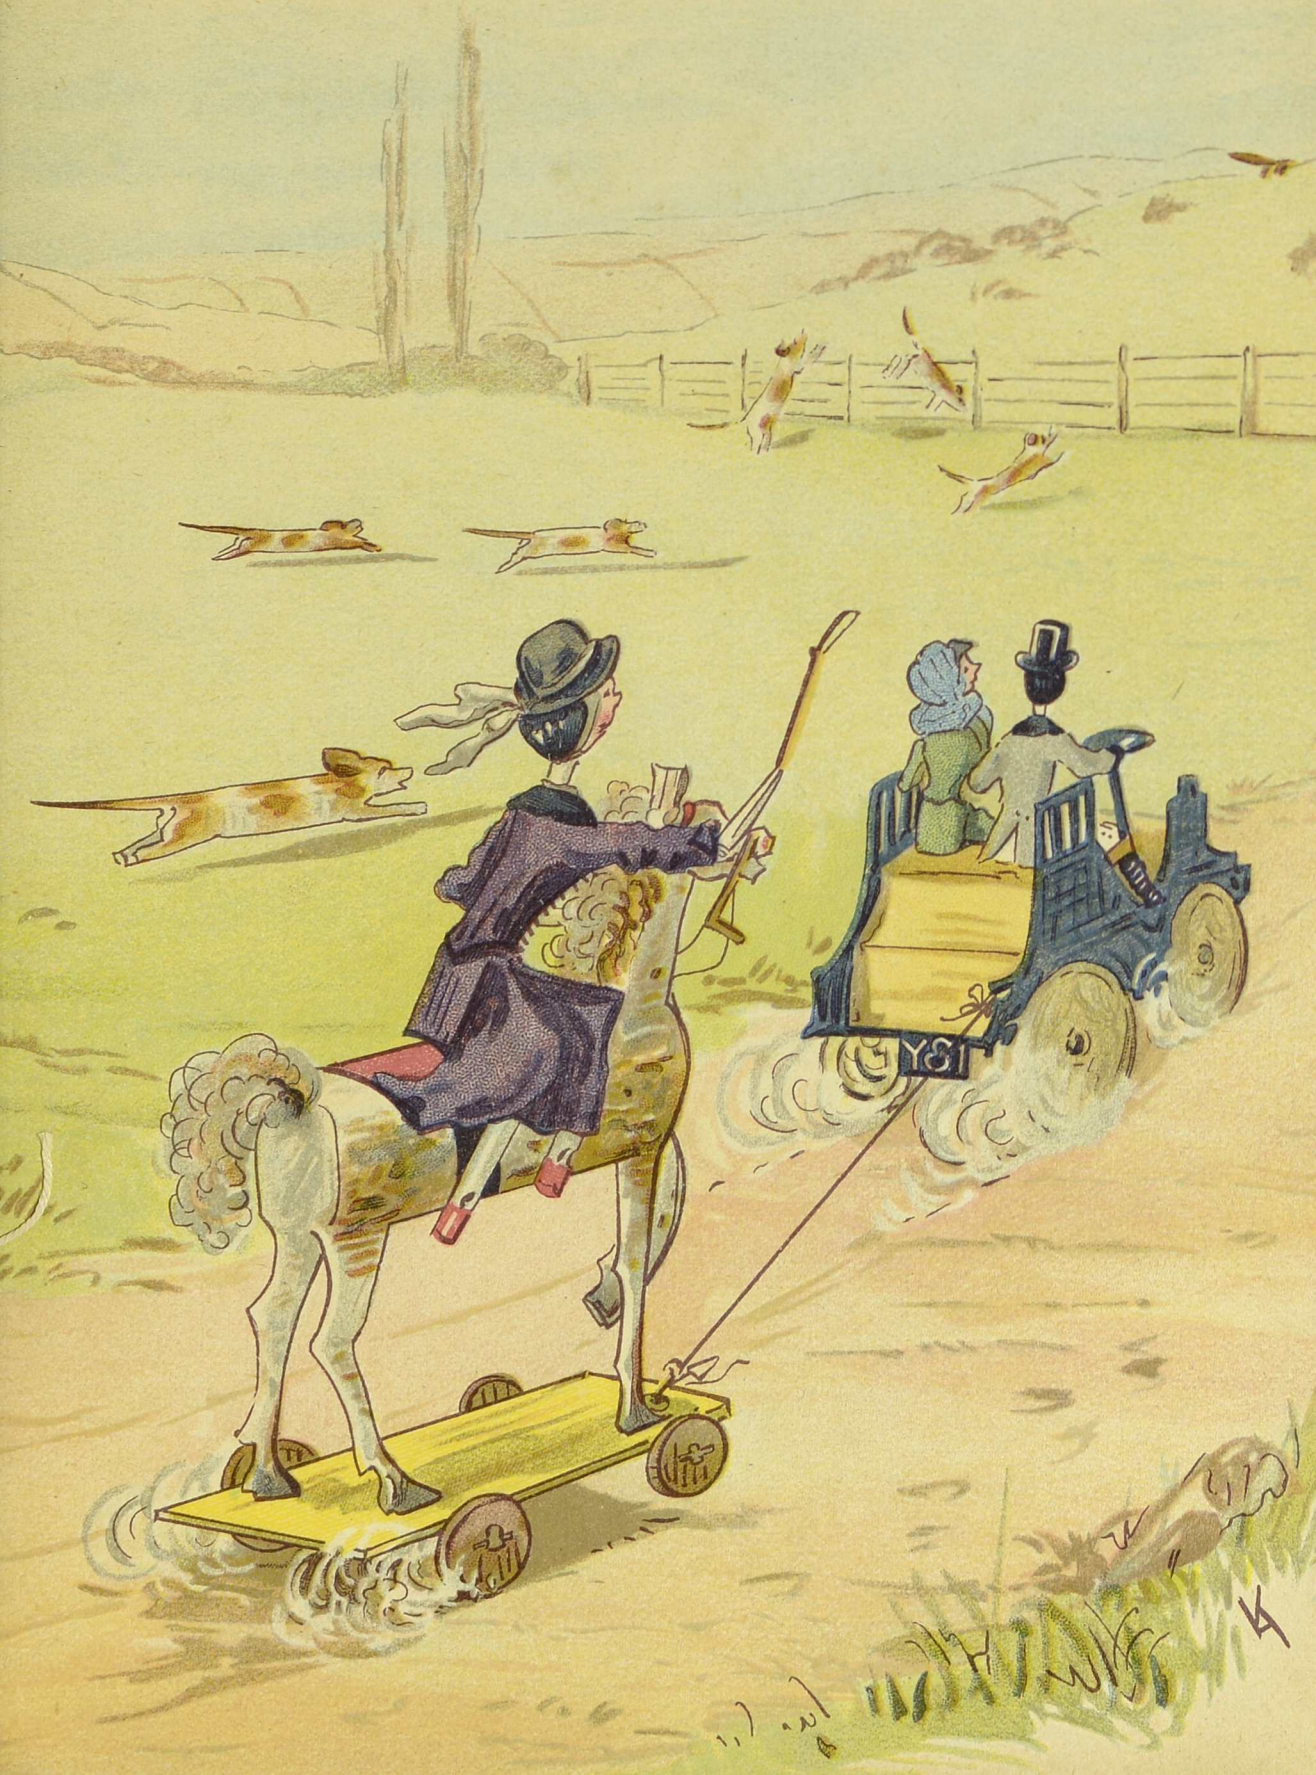

Ah! here's Sammy.

Gone away!

And that's where Sammy found himself
presently—

"Whoa—Dapple—whoa—a
Keep still, you silly thing,
don't you know a barn-
-door figgy when you
see one?"

Whoa-a-a-a-then."

Whoever would think
that horrid old motor
was in the road,
just under that
lovely gap —
Oh! — — —

poor Sammy!

but he wasn't much
the worse, and a nail
or two soon put Dapple
torights. —

and here he is —
in at the death!

"Bravo Sammy!

A splendid run you
made of it!

Here's the Brush!

and well you
deserve it too!"

And now

Sammy--

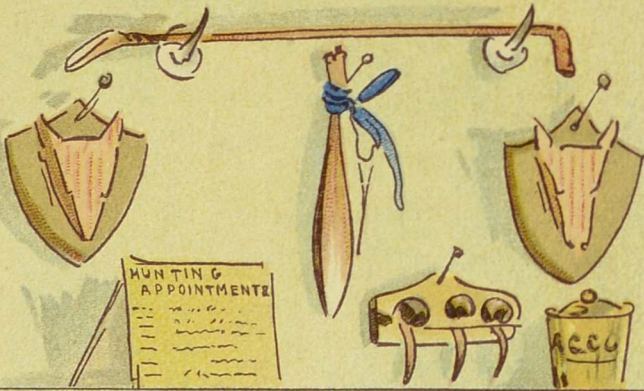

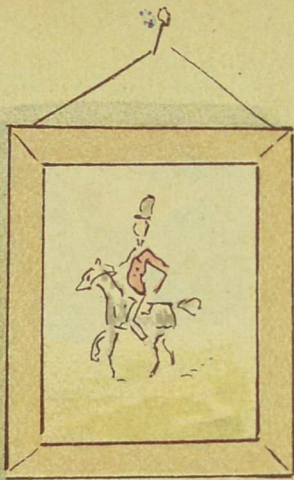

a

well earned

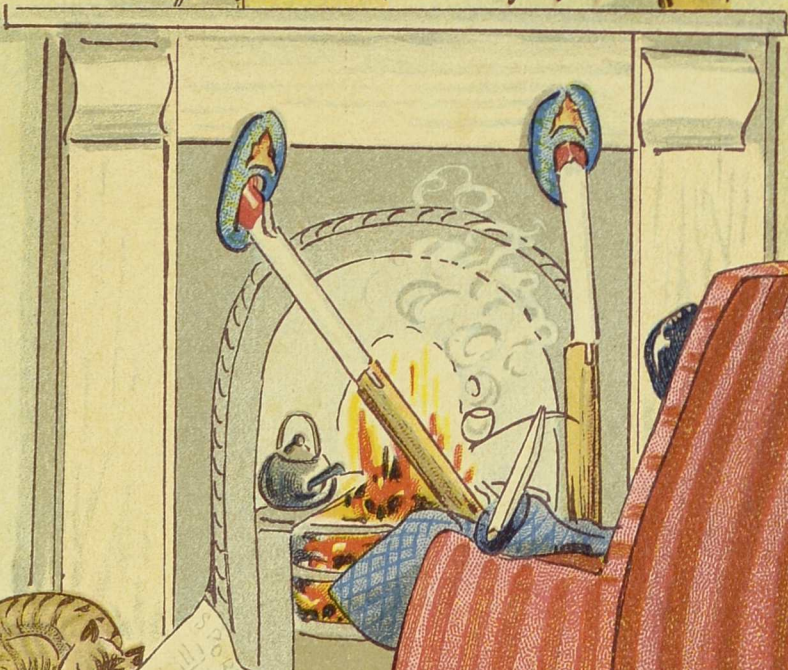

refuse!

---

HUNTING
APPOINTMENTS

K

