- PREFACE -

THE first edition of the Cyclists' Road Guide published two years ago, having been entirely exhausted, and the number of cycling tourists continuing to increase, it was decided to issue a second edition revised and extended. A number of new routes have been added and the old ones revised and corrected to date, and it is hoped that in its present shape the book will be even more useful and acceptable.

The names of all junction points, as well as the beginning and end of each route, have been indicated in heavy type.

The index is complete and contains the name of each place mentioned in the book and the various pages upon which it will be found.

I have been particularly indebted to Messrs. J. M. Barnes, St. John, N.B.; F. M. Macnaughton, Quebec; L. Blagdon, Fraserville, Quebec; Colin McIntosh, Carleton Place; P. C. Dowdall, Almonte; Chas. Macnamara, Arnprior, and T. H. Graham, Inglewood, for assistance in compiling this edition, and to these gentlemen I desire to express my sincere thanks for their kindness.

Messrs. Adams & Sons Co.,

GENTLEMEN—As an old bicycle racing man, I can heartily endorse the chewing of TUTTI FRUTTI Gum in long and hard races, as it very much diminishes the dryness and thirst which are so distressing at such times.

The tourist who has the time at his disposal should leave the Falls by the River road to Niagara Falls town, thence to Stamford, branching east from that village to Queenston and along the River road to Niagara-on-the-Lake. By taking this route the traveller will be in sight of the river nearly the whole distance and see the grand show sights, including the Falls, Suspension and Cantilever bridges, Whirlpool, Queenston Heights and Brock's monument. The road is fairly good and all down hill, but do not coast. From Niagara-on-the-Lake take the westerly stone road direct to St. Catharines. A more direct route to St. Catharines from the Falls is via Stamford and Thorold, branching west at Stamford. Leave St. Catharines by crossing canal and climbing western hill, thence direct to Hamilton, the whole road being good gravel and macadam. Leave Hamilton by York street and Lake Shore road to Oakville, where choice of routes is offered to Toronto, the northerly route via Trafalgar and Dundas street being the better, though the Lake Shore road via Port Credit is not bad unless after rain, and is certainly more picturesque.

Leave Hamilton by King street west, until Hamilton and Dundas R.R. is passed, then south to Ancaster over good stone road, rather hilly; thence west to Brantford, road fair. From Brantford to Woodstock is fairly level, mostly good gravel with some sand, and A1 after rain. Leave Woodstock by Dundas street to Woodburn Mills, then west to Ingersoll and London, over good gravel roads. Leave London by York street bridge and along Wharncliffe road to Lambeth and south to St. Thomas, good gravel. Thence via Talbot road to Port Talbot, and north-west to Wallacetown, the latter part of the road being hilly. Very heavy sand between Wallacetown and Clearville, with many hills, then road improves in surface and hills disappear, becoming finally a regular race track for the last 45 miles. See also route Wallacetown to Blenheim.

From Blenheim proceed east one mile, thence north a half mile and east to Ridgetown; here take train to Dutton, thence south to Wallacetown and north-east to Shedden, again south to Fingal and east to St. Thomas. This road is all fine gravel, and by taking train from Ridgetown to Dutton the sands around Clearville are escaped. No hills. This was the route always chosen in the days of the solid-tired ordinary. Tourists not wishing to enter St. Thomas may continue over fine gravel north-east from Shedden $6\frac{3}{4}$ miles to Talbotville, on the Hamilton to Windsor route.

Leave Hamilton by King street west, following stone road through Main street of Dundas, under G. T. R. tracks to Greensville, continuing north to Freelon. (The latter part of the road is somewhat heavy after rain, as it passes through a swamp.) A good gravel road runs from Freelon to Guelph. Leave Guelph by Woolwich street, proceeding to Marden, where take the right fork of road going north-east to Fergus, thence to Mount Forest, the whole distance being over fine gravel roads. Leave Mount Forest by the Garafraxa road, which leads straight into Owen Sound. These roads are somewhat hilly, but surface generally is good, with some perfect stretches.

Leave Toronto by College street west and Dundas street to Toronto Junction, thence to Cooksville over macadam. Here turn north over clay road to Brampton and west to Georgetown (clay and gravel). Proceed direct north to Brisbane (rough gravel), thence south-east to Guelph (fine gravel). From Georgetown through Acton and Rockwood to Guelph is 5 miles shorter, roads not so good. Leave Guelph by Elora road, thence direct west to Stratford and south-west to St. Mary's (good gravel). Turn south along county line for 10 miles and west into Thorndale, then south to London road. There are a number of hills, but none of any consequence. From London to Sarnia is beautiful—level as a billiard table and of fine gravel. Six miles may be saved by not entering Strathroy, but as that is a fine town and hotel accommodation is scarce elsewhere, it is advisable to run down there.

Leave Toronto by College and Dundas streets, branching to right just before entering Toronto Junction, to Weston; fair road thence over clay roads west to Brampton, then north to Orangeville—roads all clay. No hills until Inglewood is reached, from which through the Credit Valley is beautiful scenery and some hills to Orangeville. From Orangeville to Owen Sound the road is fairly good most of the distance and very fine towards the end, but some clay and sand are interspersed; the hills are high and not infrequent. Leave Owen Sound by Division street, going west over main travelled road, branching to right at forks three miles out. Follow road to Hepworth, thence straight north to Wiarton. Road a little rough to Shallow Lake, thence first-class.

An alternative route is to proceed west from Brampton over fair gravel road to Georgetown with poor sandy road thence to Rockwood and good gravel into Guelph, where Hamilton to Owen Sound route is joined.

the limits of the regular city drives. Then ferry to Repentigny and clay roads to St. Sulpice, with fair clay roads intermingled with long grass; then passing through St. Felix, St. Joseph, St. Gabriel, which are only a few miles apart, meeting sandy roads towards Lanoraie, where walking is the only alternative, for acres of sand can be seen on all sides, but getting better towards Berthier.

Clay roads will be found to St. Cuthbert and heavy clay roads to Maskinonge, and lumpy with deep dust to Yamachiche, inclining to sand towards Point du Lac. Good walking to Three Rivers on account of the sand mixed with long grass; and where wheeling can be taken in it would be best to take the wagon-wheel track. Crossing the bridge from Three Rivers to Piles Branch, heavy sand will be encountered for about 4 miles, getting better towards Champlain, and continue about the same to Batiscau; here cross by the ferry, which consists of one of the latest inventions and rowed on the "windlass" plan. When across the tourist will do well to enquire of the natives which is the proper road to take.

After a couple of miles a novelty in the line of roads will be encountered in the form of sawdust, which is not as bad as sand, but is very heavy wheeling until past St. Anne de la Parade, where macadam roads will be found through Grondines, La Chevrotiere, Deschambault, and then the nicest piece of road of the whole trip is from the latter place to Portneuf, a distance of 6 miles. At this place a boarding house only can be had instead of a hotel as is usually the case, and the traveller is advised here to fill his pockets (so to speak) for future occasions with the necessities of life, it being very hard to get anything

Leaving Portneuf, roads begin to get very hard with clay lumps, making very slow wheeling to St. Bazile, and getting rocky and very "hilly" towards Point Rouge. Up to this point the land has been very level, but steep hills where "walking is good" will be encountered from here to Quebec. Macadam roads continue from Pt. Rouge to Belair, a distance of 15 miles, the longest distance between any of the towns. The roads then incline to clay passing through Lorette and getting better towards Quebec. Of course these clay roads were passed over on dry days; when it rains———. This journey was performed by Mr. Louis Rubenstein, of the Montreal Bicycle Club, who was accompanied by Mr. J. H. Thomlinson, of the same club.

Leave Quebec by Island ferry, sailing from Champlain market wharf. The landing is at Beaulieu on the Island. Take road to left and wheel to St. Pierre, 5 miles. This is best starting point for round trip.

At Beaulieu is the only hotel on the Island, but it is first-class in every respect. Good boarding houses everywhere else. The road from St. Laurent to St. Francois is very good, but the remainder is not much to brag of. Near St. Laurent you have to face a steep hill. It is not absolutely necessary to go round by St. Pierre in starting. The trip may be made from Beaulieu straight to St. Laurent, but perennial mud covers this road for 3 miles or so. The other road is longer and rough, but it is a long way preferable to mud.

QUEBEC TO MAIN BOUNDARY LINE—Continued.

Once the Levis Heights are surmounted the roads are generally level until nearing the boundary. As far as St. Henri the road is good macadam. At St. Henri take road to right and cross Etchemin river, first paying 3c. toll. From here on the road is clay and sand, very good in dry weather, and drying pretty quickly after rain. Leaving St. Joseph the country gets gradually wilder and more unsettled, and the roads less beaten by traffic. Nearing the boundary, sand and hills are met with, though it is rarely necessary to walk. The hotels are good of their class.

QUEBEC TO TADOUSAC—Continued.

Leave Quebec by bridge over St. Charles river on Dorchester street and continue straight ahead, following the road as it turns to the east. As far as Chateau Richer the roads are the very best macadam. Beyond this point are clay roads, not much used. At Ste. Anne is the world-renowned miracle working shrine. A good deal of sand and some pretty stiff hills are met with as you proceed. Beyond Murray Bay is terra-incognita, as no sane cyclist has ever attempted the trip.

Below St. Paul's Bay address everyone as Mr. Tremblay—three-fourths of the population are Tremblays—and should you strike one who is not, he will answer to the name, nevertheless.

From Riviere du Loup to Cacouna, road a little hilly but good, sandy soil. Turn south at Cacouna church to first cross road, and then due east to Isle Verte church. Splendid roads, sandy and rock soil and level road. From Isle Verte to Trois Pistoles, three pretty steep hills (two up and one down, going east), balance level and road generally good. Trois Pistoles to St. Fabien, good level road for a distance of 8 or 9 miles, balance hilly. St. Fabien to Bic still hilly and road fair. Bic to Matane via Grand Metis and Little Metis, best stretch of road in the country, splendid marine views, almost level.

This route is the connecting link between Quebec and St. John, N.B. (see "Quebec to Matane" and "Edmundston to St. John.") The roads on the average are very fair. The scenery, especially along Lake Temiscouata, is very fine. To St. Honore roads mostly uphill, but good, thence downhill for 20 miles; fair roads. Fine views of Lake Temiscouata and first-class roads to Edmundston.

Good fishing at almost every point.

The road is considered quite good for wheeling. At Andover a road crosses the river, following the railroad down the river valley, while the main post road continues on the opposite side. The former is freest from hills and passes through several small villages, while the latter is more hilly and runs through a less settled country. Either road is quite good. The scenery along the river (and it is in sight at all times) is very fine. Watering troughs of clear, cool water are quite numerous. The above hotels, excepting Florenceville, are C. W. A. hotels, and allow special rates to association members. Consuls will be found in Woodstock, Fredericton and St. John.

Wheeling is very good. C.W.A. consuls at St. John, Sussex, Moncton and Amherst. Nearly all the above hotels give special rates to C.W.A. members. The road from this point to Halifax is little used since the railroad has been built, except in a roundabout way through Pugwash, Wallace, Tatamagouche, River John, Pictou and Truro to Halifax. A considerable portion of the road is through a disinteresting part of the country. There is another road from Amherst which follows the railroad over the Cobequid mountains, but it is poor wheeling. The most popular route from St. John to Halifax is to cross the Bay of Fundy to Digby and ride up the Annapolis valley.

ST. JOHN TO HALIFAX—Continued.

The trip across the bay in the magnificent steamer Prince Rupert is delightful. The road from Digby to Lawrencetown is fair, but contains some long stretches of good gravel; from Lawrencetown to Kentville the road is too sandy for the bicycle, and the best route is along the north mountain road, or by train. From Kentville to Windsor the wheeling is good, through a most historical part of the province including Wolfville, where there is a large college, and Grand Pre, where the great massacre of the French took place. From Windsor to Bedford the road is fair; from Bedford the road follows the shore of the Bedford basin to Halifax, and is very picturesque.

The "Southern route" by the main post road is good hard clay with some sand to Lunenburg, from which point to Halifax is first-class gravel. It is hardly as good a route as via Annapolis and Windsor, and lacks the advantage possessed by the other route, of proximity to railways. The Atlantic Ocean is, however, in full view the whole distance.

Go straight from Winnipeg via Main street north to Selkirk—one road, and no one could miss it—a good clay road, but not passable after a shower.

At Selkirk, is a historic church and graveyard, as it is here all the old first settlers are buried. At St. Paul's, 2 miles further on, is an Indian Industrial School, carried on by the Episcopalian Church. At Lower Fort Garry is a stockaded fort yet used by the Hudson Bay Co. At Selkirk is a Lunatic Asylum and the Government Fish Hatcheries (the largest in the Dominion). A trip further north to the Indian Reserve might be interesting, especially if the tourist could arrive about the time "treaty money" was being paid.

Little more may be said about this road than that it lies almost parallel with the railway track, and is well traveled, affording good wheeling the full distance. The soil is clay with slight mixture of sand, and gets into wheeling shape very soon after even a heavy rain. Virden, a nice Manitoba town, built mostly of stone, is by all odds the best midway stopping-place.

10		High Bluff.....
7	63	Portage la Prairie.....	Albion.

This road is always good except after a rain or in the early spring. The road is a heavy clay and gives the tourist a glimpse of the variety of Manitoba scenery.

Leave Winnipeg by Portage avenue which goes straight through to Portage la Prairie and follows the old Assiniboine Trail. At Silver Heights, 5 miles from the city, is the Manitoba residence of Sir Donald A. Smith, and here are to be found a herd of buffalo—the last of that noble race to be found in Manitoba. Sir Donald also has some fine Highland cattle and Herefords. Headingly, St. Francois Xavier and Pigeon Lake can be seen by keeping right on the same trail. When going through Baie St. Paul, after going over the third bridge, take the trail to the left; this leads towards the river and the river will be followed in and out for 3 or 4 miles and lead out to Poplar Point; keep the same trail for High Bluff until you come to where the trail apparently divides, going three directions—take the middle trail. From High Bluff to Portage la Prairie is considered the finest piece of road on the trip. This trip is full of interest to the tourist, and he will have to keep his wits to go the shortest way, but he can hardly get lost as he is between the railroad and the Assiniboine River all way. The scenery is nicely varied with riding along the river curves through the bush and again out on the wide prairie.

9	Letellier	Parent's.
9 65	Emerson	Russell.

This is a clay road all the way through and is well travelled. Except after a rain it is excellent wheeling the whole distance.

Starting from the Leland House, Winnipeg, turn south on Main street across the Assiniboine and down River avenue and Pembina street. Follow the electric car track as far as the Pembina school, turning there to the right, and by taking this trail it will lead right out towards the river and to St. Norbert. From here on the road runs between the river and the railway track, and the scenery is very pretty. Around St. Agathe the road is more apt to be cut up. With the roads in anything like their normal condition, Morris can be reached by noon, and the tourist is sure of a good meal at the Commercial. The road from Morris to Letellier runs along the track, sometimes on one side and sometimes on the other. After leaving Letellier cross the track below the elevator and take the first good trail running to the left (towards the river), and this leads right to the bridge crossing the river to Emerson. From Emerson to Pembina, N.D., is only about three miles and is a good road.

Follow Saskatchewan avenue west as far as McCulloch's, take the trail to the right and go direct west again over a good road. This is one "trail," and follows almost parallel to the railway track clear through to Moosomin. After passing McGregor the road to Austin goes through the sand hills which are practically "unwheelable," as the machine would sink up to the hubs in the soft, yielding sand. From Austin to Sidney the road is fair but sandy, and from Sidney to Carberry is again through sand hills. As the road leaves Carberry it is light, but after getting past Sewell is much better wheeling and improves until Brandon, "the wheat city," is reached. The tourist is advised to board the C.P.R. at Portage and stay on board until Carberry is reached, as on this road there would be a lot of "get off and push."
